Mitigate risk of non-clinical advice for workplace injuries

Workplace injuries are often self-diagnosed by individuals or managers, increasing liability risk. Sonder's clinician-led triage model ensures accurate assessment and reduces exposure to misdiagnosis and mistreatment.

Fast and seamless access to early treatment, around the clock

Through Sonder's 24/7 support centre and app, employees can contact Sonder on their own terms, through either phone or chat any time they may be experiencing discomfort and pain (often after hours and offsite) or an injury onsite. Where treatment is required, Sonder can facilitate priority treatment for either GP or Physio care depending on what is required upon initial assessment.

Reduce long term impacts by increasing early treatment seeking behaviour

Injuries are often not reported until they become more serious. Without early intervention and treatment, minor aches can become larger issues resulting in poorer health outcomes or extended time out of work for employees, impacting TRIFR rates and increasing the likelihood of workers compensation claims.

“Sonder is a trusted brand with our people and we are anticipating the use of injury management on the same platform will increase the wellbeing usage on the platform too. If you couple this with the 24/7 clinical availability and it was a no-brainer for all business units.”
